A Word to You From Each

HONOUR

(Scout Law No. 1)

A Scout's Honour is to be Trusted. If a Scout says "On my honour it is so", it is so, just as if he had taken a most solemn oath. Similarly, if a Leader says to a Scout, "I trust you on your honour to do this", the Scout is bound to carry out the order to the very best of his ability and to let nothing interfere with his doing so.

The Scout Promise, made by a boy when invested as a Boy Scout, is as follows:

*On my honour I promise that I will do my best—
To do my duty to God
and the King,
To help other people at all times,
To obey the Scout Law.*

"I hear this is going to be a great year for wearing the Uniform. It seems that every Scout who can do so is going to be dressed up in honour of Lord Baden-Powell's visit. This chap Depression is swiftly loosing ground, and from all over Canada come reports indicating the return of prosperity. The idea is to get every troop fully uniformed. And for the life of me, I don't see why they shouldn't do that! We Scout Uniforms save other clothes that Scouts would have to wear if they didn't wear us,—clothes that generally cost more than I do. And the Troop or the Patrol does look so much snappier when each Scout has on the Uniform. They feel more like a real Troop or a real Patrol; more like doing things as a unit. It's just the same as a ball team: if two or three of the fellows don't have a Uniform, the whole team feels sort of low-spirited.

"It makes all the difference in the world to a Scout to be in Uniform. And now that the Stores Department has arranged so that they can make me out of such good quality and sell me at such a reasonable price, you would think there wouldn't be a Scout content to be without a Uniform, no matter how much he might have to work and deny himself for a little while in order to get me. Once he gets me, he never regrets any effort he made to acquire me.

"Of course, I am the 'Official' Boy Scout Uniform. No imitation can ever take my place. When you have me, Scout, you have the right thing. You can wear me all over Canada, and all over the world for that matter, with your head up, your shoulders square. And don't forget that there is a little bit of magic in me: the minute you put me on, you are inspired to be a better Scout—ready for duty whatever happens."

What the Scout Uniform Thinks About

WELL, I am glad that's through with! Being dyed is no fun! No fun, either, being laid out on a table almost a quarter of a mile long and having machines cut you up, and your pieces sent around to a lot of sewing machines. By the time you come together again in a shirt, or a pair of shorts, the pulling and jerking and twisting and everything you go through would ruin many a piece of cloth,—but if you can stand up to the specifications demanded by the Stores Department, you can stand anything!

"So I guess I can stand anything a Boy Scout can do to me. He can wear me on hikes over dusty roads, up rocky hills, through brush, across streams, into swamps; climbing trees, sleeping in me if he has to, leaving me on the ground (it's a poor kind of a Scout, though, that would treat me that bad!) he can do this all summer long and then let his mother put me through the washtub, wringer and the ironing board, and I'll bet you a million dollars I will be pretty near as good as new!

"Yes, sir, I'll see a Scout through all the wear and tear of what he has to do, and I'll see him through troop meetings, parades, community good turns, Church attendance and everything else where he has to be dressed up. Why, I've been in this Movement since the start! Everybody knows me! The minute a Scout puts me on, he's a different Scout! Say what you will, a boy does stand a little straighter when he has me on, he certainly gets more attention; and if other fellows in the troop have Uniforms, he's mighty glad he has me to wear. His mother likes to see him dressed up in me. So do his sisters and his uncles and his aunts. If he takes good care of me I'll last him a long while. I know what I'm talking about when I say that, because I know just how I was made and how carefully I was put together.

LOYALTY

(Scout Law No. 2)

A Scout is Loyal to the King, his country, his leaders, his parents, his employers and to those under him. He must stick to them through thick and thin against anyone who is their enemy, or who even talk badly of them.

HELPLESSNESS

(Scout Law No. 3)

A Scout's Duty is to be Useful and to Help others, and he is to do his duty before everything else, even though he gives up his own pleasure, or comfort, or safety to do it. When in difficulty to know which of two things to do, he must ask himself, "Which is my duty?"—that is, "Which is the best for other people?" and do that one. He must Be Prepared at any time to save life, or to help injured persons and must try his best to do a good turn to somebody every day.

FRIENDLINESS

(Scout Law No. 4)

A Scout is a Friend to All, and a Brother to Every Other Scout, no matter to what Social Class the other Belongs. Thus, if a Scout meets another Scout, even though a stranger to him, he must speak to him, and help him in any way that he can, either to carry out the duty he is then doing, or by giving him food, or, as far as possible, anything that he may be in want of. A Scout must never be a Snob.

CHIVALRY

(Scout Law No. 5)

A Scout is Courteous: That is, he is polite to all—but especially to women and children and old people and invalids, cripples, etc., and he must not take any reward for being helpful or courteous.

Section of the Stores Department

What the Equipment Thinks

SAY! to listen to that Uniform chap you would think that he represented the whole of the Association. Everybody knows and appreciates the fact that the Uniform is the outward and visible sign of a Boy Scout, that it's made of the finest of materials, that it can be purchased at a reasonable cost and that it does save wear and tear on other clothes and is economy in the end—But! what about Equipment? Well, all we can say is that we are almost as necessary as a Uniform. In fact more so at times. And what an array of uses we are put to. Every boy knows how valuable the different items of Equipment are, how handy he finds the Scout Axe, the Woodcraft Knife, Rucksack, First Aid Kit, Flashlight etc., etc. Perhaps we had better not say any more;—except this: Look us over!"

A Word from the Books

"It's all very well for those Uniform and Equipment fellows having so much to say, but we really think that something should be said about Books. Everybody agrees that we seldom get paraded before the public, but we venture to predict that we are in just as large a demand as those other fellows. A Uniform might put one of us in his pocket or we may find ourselves occasionally nestling in a Haversack, but this is only because the Scout wants us for ready reference. Some of us have been on hikes, many of us at camps, and we're always present at Troop Headquarters. Our friend the 1935 Diary is already in hundreds of Scout and Cub pockets and our newest addition The Boy Scout and Wolf Cub Proficiency Badge Reference Book is going to be found everywhere.

Yes, we agree with the other fellows, but we're here to say that we play a mighty important part in Scouting too."

THRIFT

(Scout Law No. 9)

A Scout is Thrifty, that is, he saves every penny he can and puts it into the bank so that he may have money to keep himself when out of work and thus not make himself a burden to others, or that he may have money to give away to others when they need it.

CHEERFULNESS

(Scout Law No. 8)

A Scout Smiles and Whistles under all Difficulties. When he gets an order he should obey it cheerily and readily, not in a slow, hang-dog sort of way. Scouts never grouse at hardships, nor whine at each other, nor swear when put out, but go on whistling and smiling. Under any annoying circumstances you should force yourself to smile at once and then whistle a tune and you will be all right.

CLEANLINESS

(Scout Law No. 10)

A Scout is Clean in Thought, Word and Deed, that is, he looks down upon a silly youth who talks dirt, and he does not let himself give way to temptation either to talk it, or to think or do anything dirty. A Scout is pure and clean-minded and manly.

KINDNESS

(Scout Law No. 6)

A Scout is a Friend to Animals. He should save them as far as possible from pain, and should not kill any animal unnecessarily, for it is one of God's creatures. Killing an animal for food or an animal which is harmful, is allowable.

The Wolf Cub Promise, made by a boy when invested as a Wolf Cub is as follows:—

*I promise to do my best—
To do my duty to God
and the King,
To keep the Law of the Wolf Cub Pack, and to do a good turn to somebody every day.*

OBEDIENCE

(Scout Law No. 7)

A Scout Obeys Orders of his parents, patrol leader, or Scoutmaster without question. Even if he gets an order he does not like he must do as soldiers and sailors do—he must carry it out all the same because it is his duty, and after he has done it he can come and state any reasons against it, but he must carry out the order at once. That is discipline.

Comments from Badges and Insignia

"After listening to the Uniform, Equipment and Book fellows it does appear in order that we should say just a few words. We lay claim to the achievement side of Scouting; we are the designators of its several ranks, the progress made in proficiency badge tests and the thanks of Boy Scouts to others for their 'Good Turns.' You should see how carefully the Quartermaster keeps us at Headquarters. And say! isn't he strict about where he sends us. Sometimes a Scoutmaster or Cubmaster will include us in an order with those Equipment and Uniform fellows, but we're never sent out in the same parcel. No, Sir! If you want to order us you'll have to send to your Provincial Headquarters, for no Badge or Insignia orders are filled at the Dominion office. Who wants to be wrapped up with those big fellows! We're too important for that!"

A Summary from the Stores Department

"Yes, they are all correct. Each of them have their own individual part in the great game of Scouting. But we think that mention should have been made as to how carefully each and every order is attended to, and how promptly it is shipped forward. Also how neatly each section of the Department is kept,—Uniforms, Equipment, Books, Badges and Insignia. But never mind, that's what the Department was organized for—To be of real service to you, to provide a place where you may get:—WHAT YOU WANT! WHAT YOU WANT QUICKLY! AND GOODS OF THE HIGHEST QUALITY OBTAINABLE!

The word "uniform" means having the same form or manner, in other words, all alike. The Cub uniform differs from that of the Scout as will be readily seen by the above illustration. Like their elder brothers, the Boy Scouts, Cubs are very proud of their uniform and none look smarter when properly and correctly attired. It is, however, most important to the regard in which Cubs shall be held by the general public, that their uniform, like their conduct, should be orderly. Appearance in varied nondescript outfits creates an unfavourable impression upon other boys who desire to become Cubs. Every effort, therefore, should be made toward having Cubs neatly and correctly uniformed.

The Scout uniform provides for many people the only recognized contact with Scouting, and the impression made is chiefly that of the neatness (or otherwise) of the outfit, and the bearing of the wearer. The neatness and manly smartness of the Scout uniform meets the love of distinctive dress that is innate in every boy, and the wearing adds appreciably to his personal pride and self-respect. The Scout uniform is not a luxury—it saves wear and tear on other clothes and is economy in the end. Scouts! Be proud of your uniform, wear it always when Scouting—and wear it Correctly.

WEAR YOUR "OFFICIAL" ROVER SCOUT UNIFORM—CORRECTLY

The uniform for a Rover Scout as authorized in Policy, Organization and Rules is quite straightforward and calls for little comment. All Rovers should pay especial care to see that their uniform conforms in all respects to the rules as laid down as they are being watched very carefully by their younger brothers the Scouts and Cubs and if they are not careful to observe the rules, they cannot expect others to do so. The example set by Rovers in wearing their uniform Correctly has an enormous effect on others and they must in all things lead in the right direction.

How To Order Badges

All Badges and Insignia listed on page 33 of this catalogue are for issue only for the use of bona-fide registered Leaders and members of The Boy Scouts Association when properly qualified for in accordance with the current edition of "Policy, Organization and Rules" for Canada.

Orders for Badges and Insignia must be sent direct to Provincial Headquarters (a) By, or over the signature of, the Secretary or Badge Secretary of the Local Association, (b) By, or over the signature of, the Leader when for members of Packs, Troops, Crews or Groups not under the jurisdiction of Local Associations.

Much of the success of the Boy Scout movement depends upon the impression made by Leaders. Their appearance in uniform identifies them as representatives of the Boy Scouts Association of Canada, with all that it stands for. Hence, it is important that their dress, like their conduct, should be truly representative of Scouting. The correctly attired Leader gives the impression of Businesslike Organization and Efficiency that impresses the public with the quality of a Leader's leadership and the resulting quality of the boys under his control.

Uniform for Lady Scouters

The question of uniform is an important one and while a standard outfit has so far not been officially recognized in Canada, it has been noticed that in many centres Lady Scouters have devised for themselves very creditable uniforms according to their individual tastes. Assuming that rules governing such uniforms will eventually be adopted for Canada, it is only to be expected that such rules, as in the case of some others, will be fairly elastic. The Stores Department is anxious to be of service in this connection and will be pleased to forward, upon application, a pamphlet entitled "Notes for Women Scouters" which gives in full detail the "official" uniform adopted for the British Isles and which may be quite properly worn in Canada.

THE "OFFICIAL" FALL AND WINTER UNIFORM PROVIDES A TWO-FOLD PURPOSE—

SCOUT-WEAR and SCHOOL-WEAR

OWING to the cold winters prevalent in Canada it was found necessary to make available an "Official" Fall and Winter Uniform to take the place of the regulation uniform as generally worn. Consideration was given in the designing of the Winter Uniform to making it a two-fold purpose outfit, namely: suitability for both Scouting and Schooling. The illustrations on this and the opposite page show how adaptable the several garments are for Fall and Winter wear. No matter whether the whole uniform or part of it is required, you'll find each and every garment made from the highest grade material—put together so well that every thread and seam can be depended upon—splendidly modelled making an unusually effective appearance and proof against winter's most bitterest days. Parents should take advantage of this outfit as it offers for their boys clothes that will give complete satisfaction at prices consistent with highest quality.

• "Official" Camp Service Outfits •

YOUR "Official" uniform will stand for anything you can do to it within reason. It will give lasting service—satisfactory wear, and assure you of a smart appearance when on parade, but, of course, it will last longer and will always look much better if you will spare it some of the harder knocks. That is why the Camp Service Outfit was produced—an "undress" uniform for knocking about at camp and on the hike; bird study up a tree, and all that sort of "rough stuff". It's so comfortable that you forget you have it on. The Boy Scout and Leader's outfit consists of a khaki drill shirt with an open V-neck and short one quarter length sleeves, official (detachable) uniform buttons and Boy Scouts-Canada badge embroidered over the right pocket, khaki drill shorts of standard pattern, plain all khaki stockings and regulation belt. The Wolf Cub outfit (introduced now for the first time) consists of a light weight woollen jersey, navy blue colour, with an open V-neck, short one quarter length sleeves and, of course, the "official" Wolf Cubs-Canada badge neatly embroidered on the right breast. The shorts are of standard pattern made from navy blue drill to match the jersey while the regulation stockings complete the outfit.

The accompanying photographs illustrate how smart and comfortable looking the Camp Outfits are—you'll like them for the ample freedom they'll afford you during those jolly days at camp and on the hike.

A Word About Tents

A few days spent in camp is surely, above all others, the cheapest, healthiest and happiest holiday. It is a pleasure in which all may indulge and the greater the indulgence, the greater the benefit to be derived. All that is required is a tent, cooking and eating utensils, blankets and a rudimentary knowledge of cooking, and, of course, personal articles such as clothing, toilet necessities etc. The first cost is the only real cost. The tent and other articles, if selected carefully and treated with reasonable care, will render true service for a long time. The only other expenses are those for transport to the camp site selected and perhaps a small fee to be paid to the owner of the ground. Food must of course be purchased as required, but as one must eat whether in camp or at home, it would not be fair to treat this as a camping expense. The most important, as well as the most expensive item, is the tent and in the purchase of this a wise camper will not economize more than is necessary. This catalogue offers you a wide selection of tents that have been carefully chosen as to their suitability and to the quality of their manufacture. All tents listed are sent to you Express or Freight charges paid, so that the price quoted is the complete cost.

The advantages of signalling for Scouts are repeatedly being questioned; but apart from the fact that the Chief Scout has devoted several pages in "Scouting for Boys" to the subject, it has great value in the training of character. Signalling calls for concentration of mind and is largely a matter of self-education. The quick response of brain and hand to the eye is also a great aid in mental discipline. It is also useful at times in every walk of life, even as a hobby, and may be of potential utility when the Scout goes out to make his own livelihood in the world. We recommend "Signalling for Scouts" the "official" Scout Manual, price 50 cents, as a guide in the procedure of signalling and we offer herewith standard equipment of proven worth.

NOTES FOR BADGE EXAMINERS

BOY SCOUT BADGES:—The Proficiency Badges are an aid to character training and to the development of those qualities of good citizenship. They offer the boy incentives for progressing along the lines suggested by his own tastes and abilities.

To gain the Badge, a Scout must satisfy at least one independent and qualified examiner who has been duly approved of. The conditions laid down for each Badge in P.O.R. are intended for the guidance of Examiners so that they may know what ground the boy may legitimately be expected to have covered.

These Proficiency badges fall roughly into three classes:

- (a) Handicrafts and Hobbies such as Carpenter and Leather-worker.
- (b) Service, such as Ambulance and Pathfinder.
- (c) Scouting, such as Camper and Tracker.

The first group encourages the right use of leisure; the second promotes good citizenship, and the third provides an incentive to advanced out-door activities.

THE USE:—It is recognized that the wearing of a Proficiency badge does not indicate that the wearer is an expert in that subject, but what knowledge he has should be sound according to his age and ability. It is important that the knowledge should be kept up and not allowed to rust by disuse.

The value of these badges for character training may be indicated as follows:—

1. They provide an outlet for the boy's desire for, and sense of, creation. By utilising the badge system he is able actually to produce something of a required standard. The knowledge of being able to do something on one's own is one of the most strengthening forces we have.
2. They give him useful pleasures which may develop into lifelong hobbies.
3. They provide a ready means of encouraging the dull or backward boy, by giving such a wide range of subjects that he is able to find at least one at which he can make a good show and so retain his self-respect and gain confidence.

The Service Badges are an important element in the Movement's training for Service to others and as such necessitate some degree of practical efficiency in being able to render this service.

THE STANDARD:—It will be seen from the foregoing that in the case of hobby and handicraft badges, it is unnecessary and even undesirable to lay down any fixed standard. For the same reason the requirements for the badges are purposely laid down in wide and elastic terms. What would be a very creditable performance in a boy of indifferent mentality would be exceedingly poor in the case of his more gifted and fortunate brother. The standard therefore must be that of effort made, rather than of proficiency shown. This is only reasonable to compensate for the differences in age and opportunity.

The case of Service badges is somewhat different inasmuch as the standard, to be effective, must be a sound one. For instance, a boy's knowledge of Ambulance must be practical and thorough, as judged by recognized authorities, if he is to be of adequate assistance in time of need. The same applies to the Rescuer's badge, or the Fireman's. It will be found that in all cases of Service badges this is recognised, and the requirements of the badge are more specific for that reason.

EXAMINING:—Bearing in mind the foregoing, the examiner will find his task immensely interesting and far simpler than he may imagine.

The atmosphere should be that of an informal talk between two people interested in the same subject and, as far as possible, the feeling of examination strain should be avoided but, on the other hand, it must be remembered that boys like doing practical things and, as far as possible, the candidate should be asked to give a practical demonstration.

The examiner should be conversant with the requirements for the tests before the Scout arrives, so that constant reference to the book of rules is unnecessary.

It should be remembered that the boy is almost sure to be shy and nervous unless he knows the examiner beforehand, and it is well to establish friendly relations and confidence at the start by asking him a few questions about himself and what badges he already holds. He should always be asked to say how long he has studied his subject and whether he has attended classes, worked on his own or gained his knowledge through actual practice, as his answers will give a clue to the amount of effort he has made and the amount of interest he takes.

A few questions on the badge subject will quickly show whether he is sufficiently interested and informed to deserve the badge. As far as possible he should be asked to demonstrate the practical application of what he has learnt and in making a decision, his education, age and opportunity of learning should be borne in mind.

It should be remembered that generally the boy has taken a lot of trouble to work up for his badge and he will, therefore, appreciate a thorough test, so long as the scope of the syllabus is not exceeded.

Examiners are earnestly requested to teach the boys as much as they have time for during the tests. If a boy is well up to the work, he will delight in being led on with advice in regard to further study, both theoretical and practical, books to read, etc., since the winning of the badge is not the final aim, but only a milestone on his journey.

On the other hand, if the boy has not studied his subject sufficiently, he should be told where he is weak and given as much information as time will allow. Encouragement will go a long way in helping him to continue working, for a boy may easily have his ardour dampened by failure to pass, and if the examiner can fix a definite date for his re-examination, there is every chance of the boy sticking to it.

In cases where the examiner is uncertain whether to pass or fail, a reference to the boy's Scoutmaster will often help his decision.

Whether the boy is passed or failed, the examiner is asked to notify the fact on the form which is either sent to him or brought by the boy, and if a date for further examination has been fixed it should be so stated. The Scoutmaster can, by this means, see that the appointment is kept.

WOLF CUB BADGES:—In examining Wolf Cubs it should be remembered that the boys are younger than Scouts, and that the syllabus is accordingly less elaborate and even more practical. The younger boys are more nervous and incoherent and it is therefore necessary that the examiner should have an understanding of the small boy's mind as well as of the test.

Examiners should encourage the production of a letter from the Cubmaster giving any information as to the boy's difficulties, whether he is quick or slow, etc., and should remember that the test of effort made, rather than proficiency, is even more important with Cubs than Scouts.

It is therefore wise to ascertain not only whether the boy knows how, but also whether he has in fact been practising regularly. This particularly applies to "home" tests such as cleaning boots, physical exercises, etc.

The recommendation given above that examiners should try to extend the Scout's knowledge requires qualification in the case of Wolf Cubs, as it is important that they should not encroach on the Scout standards of any particular subject before they join the Scout section. Instead it is advisable to impress upon the boy the importance of keeping on practising in the work he has already done.

THE "OFFICIAL" SCHOOL-WEAR JERSEY (A Warren Knit Garment)

Introduced for the first time last Fall this dandy Jersey found immediate demand. Specially designed for Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs as a suitable and distinctive garment for School wear, The Jersey readily identifies the boy as a member of the Boy Scouts Association. Of course being a Warren Knit garment only the finest British wools are used in its manufacture, (a policy rigidly adhered to by this well known firm in the making of all its garments since 1877). The above illustration will give you some idea of what an ideal Jersey it is. The collar is of an entirely new type with a zipper opening permitting easy adjustment and allowing the neck to remain open or closed. Two patch pockets size 5 1/2 inches deep and 3 1/2 inches wide provide ample room for the many odd things that boys delight in carrying. Button down flaps securely seal each pocket and the "official" crest of the Association, beautifully embroidered, is displayed on the left side. Close knitted wristlets and waist band assures a perfect fit to a garment that we highly recommend. Available in the following sizes:

Size 28	to fit boys of	9 to 10 years
Size 30	to fit boys of	11 to 12 years
Size 32	to fit boys of	13 to 14 years

That's pretty big business!

And with but three "uncertain" exceptions, the Apple Day Questionnaires indicated that Scouting had benefitted generally through the attention attracted, and that Apple Day would be repeated next year.

A number of centres have adopted Scout Apple Day as their permanent means of raising necessary local Scouting funds; the citizens have become accustomed to the idea, support it, and look for it annually.

That's how good Scout Apple Days are!

Of course they must be well and carefully organized. For the latest suggestions write your Provincial Headquarters for the new edition of "The Boy Scout Apple Day" booklet.

The Questionnaires show that Purchasers' Tags are closely related to good sales; that "Official" Salesmen's Tags are important, and that the "Official" Window Card, with the big red apple and the Smiling Scout, is one of the most effective features of window displays, and for use on street cars, autos, delivery cars, trucks, etc. Order these from the Stores Department, The Boy Scouts Association, Ottawa.

Effective window displays are an important feature of good Scout Apple Day planning. A Charlottetown window during Prince Edward Island's highly successful 2nd Annual Provincial Scout Apple Day. The entire available stock of Island MacIntosh Reds was sold.

An Ontario "District Preliminary" week end camp. As most successful camps do, it wound up with an Investiture, "out under the trees and sky." The ideal Scout lecture room. A Second Class fire making race; the P.L. of the White throats anxiously wondering what's become of his gang. Finally, the whole jolly crowd, just before they're sorry it's over.

GILWELL TRAINING

in

- Cubbing
- Scouting
- Rovering

WHILST "The Scoutmaster's First Year" and other books are most effective in starting a new leader along correct lines, no reading can give the grasp and appreciation of Scouting that is derived from the full Gilwell Wood Badge Course, including the "living" of Cubbing, Scouting or Rovering of the "Practical" or summer camp course.

The Wood Badge Course consists of: Part I., Theoretical; Part II., Practical, and Part III., Application,—in all three sections, Cub, Scout and Rover Scout.

Candidates must be of the appropriate age for warrants in their own section, viz., 18 for Cub and Scout, and 25 for Rover Scout.

Considerably greater value is obtained from the course if some practical experience has been gained beforehand.

It is advisable to attend a District Training Course as a preliminary.

It is preferable, though not obligatory, to qualify in Part I., or Theoretical, before taking Part II, in all sections.

Part I., Theoretical—A correspondence course based on the reading of certain standard textbooks, plus personal experience, observation or thinking.

Part II., Scout—A ten-day camp, located whenever possible in some quiet, out-of-the-way woodsy spot, organized and run as a model Scout camp, where everyone is a boy again. An always delightful and never-forgotten experience.

Part II., Cub—A seven-day camp along similar lines, dealing with the ordinary work of the Cub Pack, plus Cub camping.

Part II., Rover—A ten-day camp of practical Rovering—Hiking, Exploring, Pioneering—plus discussions of Rover aims and ideals, use of leisure, Crew programmes, etc.

Here's a SCOUT

*with the New 1935
Official Bicycle...*

AND he is just itching to ride away on it and show it to other members of his patrol. He knows they'll be keen to own this new model, because it is the very bicycle you "Scouts" and "Cubs" asked C.C.M. to build for you.

This new model is equipped with comfortable saddle, handle-bars of a design that enable you to sit in a smarter and more natural position, and the easy-running C.C.M. Triplex Hanger. It is built extra rugged and strong to carry you and your equipment everywhere a Scout patrol has to go.

You'll admire the new "triple peak" head. You'll like the new enamelled steel rims, the rustless steel spokes, the chromium-plated bright parts, the smooth, velvety, quick-acting C.C.M. coaster brake. Dunlop Imperial Tires, 28" x 1 1/2", are also on this new 1935 Scouts' model.

It has also a new safety feature, the lower half of the rear mud guard being enamelled WHITE. On a highway at night or on a poorly lighted city street this spot of WHITE is easily picked up by a motorist's headlights coming up from behind. This new device is approved and endorsed by the Canadian National Safety League and the Ontario Safety League.

This new model is obtainable from all C.C.M. dealers. You'll readily recognize it. It is enamelled in your own Scouts' green, and has your own Scouts' emblem forming a most handsome name plate. It is the only bicycle officially authorized by Scout headquarters to carry this name plate.

Join a Scouts' Bicycle Patrol this year. Good times, good companions, good training. And ride the official Scouts' model built by

*It's not the

Model

has this
