WE VALUE YOUR CONFIDENCE

The Stores Department's aim is to serve you as you would like to be served. Our first thought is to be of real service to you, to provide a place where you may get—What you want—When you want, quickly, and where you may feel sure that it is of the highest quality obtainable. We want you to have complete confidence in this Department, and we realize that the only way we can hold your confidence is to sell you dependable supplies and give you the best possible service.

"ALL PROFITS SUPPORT SCOUTING."

Sincerely and Cordially Yours,
 GEORGE FERGUSON,
 Dominion Quartermaster.

A Message from the Chief Commissioner

The Stores Department is owned and operated by the Canadian General Council of The Boys Scouts Association. It is carried on under the supervision of the Stores Committee and the Assistant Chief Commissioner. It is managed by MR. GEORGE FERGUSON, Quartermaster, of the Dominion Headquarters Staff.

Here is what it does:—

1. It furnishes Wolf Cubs, Boy Scouts, Scoutmasters and others, such supplies as they require, of "OFFICIAL" design and pattern, of good quality in material and make-up, and at moderate prices;
2. It gives prompt, courteous and careful attention to the filling of all orders;
3. It delivers goods at a uniform price throughout Canada;
4. It earns some profit from this business and pays it over to be used for the extension of the Boy Scout Movement.

For the foregoing reasons I invite all Scouts and Scout officers to order from us the things they require.

The Catalogue describes and illustrates many of the articles. We offer good values, good quality, good service and pledge ourselves to a good use for Scouting of all the profit we make. WE SOLICIT YOUR PATRONAGE.

Our business is growing steadily; we retain the confidence and good opinion of all who have bought from us; last year more than twelve thousand orders were received; WE WANT TO REACH FIFTEEN THOUSAND in this Diamond Jubilee Year.

I WOULD LIKE TO SEE APPLICATIONS BEING RECEIVED FOR MANY MORE BADGES. These can be won by earnest and sustained study. The range of subjects and qualifications is wide enough to meet the natural tastes and aptitudes of all boys. To earn any one of the badges a Scout must apply himself in a manner which brings into play self-discipline. This form of education uses a happy combination of knowledge, skill and ideals. BADGES are the outward evidence of inward growth.

I take this opportunity to say to Scouts and Scout officers that we have good reason to be gratified, but not satisfied, with the progress of Scouting and Cubbing throughout Canada. We all need to remind ourselves frequently that Scouting and Cubbing are educational movements for the training and development of boys by a wise use of their otherwise free time—their playtime. Scouting and Cubbing should not conflict or compete with the home, the school and the church in their claim for time and attention from boys. Our work supplements and supports the best they can do in the promotion of honour, responsibility for doing one's duty, practical ability, health, goodwill and helpfulness to others—all of which are included in the characteristics of a good Scout.

We are becoming better able to furnish help by means of training courses, publications and field work. We expect great things from the general adoption of the Dominion Registration plan. Particularly we expect much from the intelligent and willing participation of the Scouts in the voluntary contribution of 50 cents a year each for the extension and improvement of field work, chiefly to introduce the benefits of Scouting to boys who have not as yet that privilege.

Faithfully yours,

Ottawa, 1927.

Chief Commissioner.

How to Carry Colours

An article that will "Put you right."

By PERCY ARMYTAGE, C.V.O.

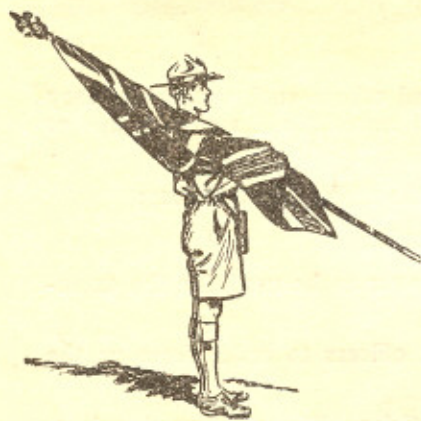

Fig. 1.

This is the correct manner in which to carry a colour "At the Slope," and is the method which should always be observed when marching.

The usual flags for a Troop should be the Union Jack and a Scout Troop Flag bearing the name of the Troop, while for a Pack it should be the Union Jack and the Pack flag, bearing the name of the Pack. The size of the Union Jack when used as a "colour" should be 3 ft. 9 ins. by 3 ft., and when used for a flag staff the length should be double the width. Both these sizes are listed in this Catalogue (see page 34). There are only two correct ways of carrying a Colour. Either:

- A. At the "Slope."
- B. At the "Carry."

When marching, the proper method is at "the Slope" which means the pole being rested on the shoulder, as in Figure 1, and the flag held against the pole between the finger and thumb so that it hangs in graceful folds.

There is a very common practice amongst Troops and Packs to carry a flag sticking out like a Friendly Society's Banner (Figure 2). This is absolutely wrong and looks very bad. The other way to carry a Colour is, as stated above, "at the Carry," when the flag carrier should be used, see Figure 3, but it is only done on certain ceremonial occasions, such as:

- A. Marching past the Saluting Base at a Rally.
- B. Carrying the Colour in a Church.
- C. Passing sentries who salute.

When holding the flag "at the Carry" great care must be taken that the knuckles of the hand holding the flag should be at the front, Figure 3. Colours should be allowed to fly out and lowered only for a Royal Salute to His Majesty the King, members of the Royal Family, and to His Excellency the Governor General as the representative of the King. (See Figure 4.)

- 4.) The Union Jack is always the King's Colour, except in the Brigade of Guards where it is the Regimental Colour, and the King's Colour is a deep red flag with the King's cipher and other emblems on it. The King's Colour (Union Jack) is always carried on the right.

NOTE:—Leaders of Troops and Packs are requested to take careful note of the above regulations.

On page 34 of this Catalogue will be found listed the "Official" Flags and Equipment necessary for Troops and Packs.

Fig. 3.

The colour should be held "At the Carry" only on certain ceremonial occasions. Care should be taken to see that the knuckles of the hand holding the flag are to the front as shown above.

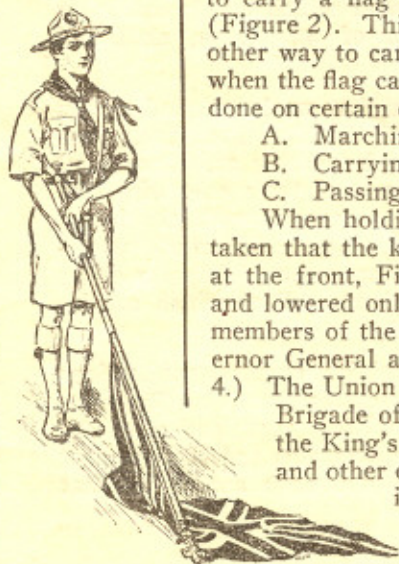

Fig. 4.

Colours should only be lowered for a Royal Salute to His Majesty the King and members of the Royal Family, and to His Excellency the Governor General as the representative of the King.

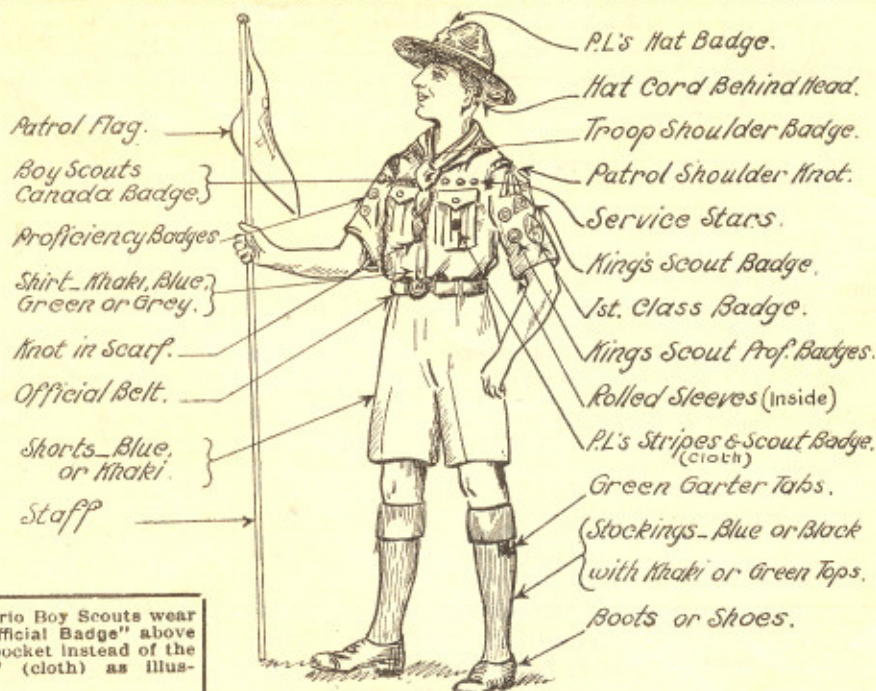

Fig. 2.

This is "How it shouldn't be done." Holding the colours as you see above reminds one of a Friendly Society's Parade.

"OFFICIAL" BOY SCOUT UNIFORMS

IMPORTANT:—Desired Uniformity in Scout Dress:—It is highly important to the regard in which Scouts shall be held by the general public that their dress, like their conduct, should be orderly. Appearance in varied nondescript outfits creates an unfavorable impression which does not encourage other boys to desire to become Scouts. Every effort should be made, therefore, in each community and for each troop therein, to adopt a STANDARD UNIFORM from the OFFICIAL EQUIPMENT listed in this catalogue.

If there is a local Association they should determine what the standard uniform in their community is to be, and all troops under their control when appearing upon official occasions should adhere to the form of dress adopted. Troops not under a local Association should likewise adopt for themselves a common standard outfit for official use. No option should be permitted in major essentials. These essentials are few. It should be decided whether the shirt is to be khaki, blue, green or grey, or whether shorts or breeches shall be worn in blue or khaki. Shorts are strongly recommended (winter excepted) but if special local conditions advise breeches, all should wear them, not some breeches and others shorts. The different Standard Scout Outfits listed in this catalogue will be of help in deciding which uniform to adopt.

"OFFICIAL" BOY SCOUT SHORTS:—Shorts are recognized as the outstanding characteristic of a Scouts Spring and Summer Uniform. All over the world they identify their wearers as Boy Scouts. Experience proves that for any one who needs to move quickly—whether Scouts, Signallers, Stretcher Carriers or Message Bearers shorts are the thing. Experience also proves that once a Scout or Scoutmaster has worn shorts he is for them from that time forward. In Europe all Scouts and Scoutmasters wear them as a matter of course, and are proud of them. In our own country, at Scoutmasters Training Courses, shorts are the "OFFICIAL" garment.

"OFFICIAL" BOY SCOUT BREECHES:—While shorts are recognized throughout the world as the "OFFICIAL" garment for Boy Scouts, it is however a well known fact that they are impracticable for use during our cold winter months, breeches have therefore been adopted as part of the "OFFICIAL" BOY SCOUT WINTER UNIFORM. In some parts of Canada during the summer months shorts are not practical due to climatic conditions, we therefore feature herewith BOY SCOUT BREECHES of standard design and materials that can be supplied to troops desiring this garment.

SCOUTS' BATHING SUIT

SCOUTCRAFT.

A Scout! He enjoys a trek through the woods more than he does a walk over the city's streets. He can tell directions by the stars, or with his watch. When matches are forgotten he laughs and proceeds to make a fire bow. The fire once started, what a breakfast, dinner, or supper he can prepare out there in the open! Does he enjoy the meal? Just watch him!

A Scout does not run away or call for help when an accident occurs. If a person has been cut he uses his first-aid knowledge in stopping the flow of blood. If a person has been burned his knowledge tells him how to alleviate the suffering. If any one should be dragged from the water unconscious a Scout at once sets to work to restore respiration and circulation.

A Scout can talk to a brother Scout with signalling flags and in other secret ways.

A Scout can tie a knot that will hold, he can climb a tree the ascent of which seems impossible to others, he can swim a river, he can patch a tent, he can mend a tear in his trousers, he can tell you what weeds are poisonous and what are not; he knows the names of birds and animals.

A Scout is kind to everything that lives. He knows that horses, dogs, and cats have their rights, and he respects them. A Scout prides himself upon doing kind deeds and no day in his life is complete unless he has been of aid to some person.

A Scout never uses alcoholic liquors, because he does not wish to poison his body; he desires a clear, active brain and so he avoids tobacco. He never swears, because swearing is a sign of weakness as well as being sacrilegious.

In fact a Scout aims to be, in this, the twentieth century, as near as possible like those men, who, two and three hundred years ago, laid the foundation for what has become the British Empire. In those days our forefathers had to be ready for any emergency, and as a Scout of the present emulates the Scout of the past, he has chosen as his motto, "Be Prepared," and a better phrase could not have been selected, for it is both a motto and a slogan all in one. Be Prepared for anything—to do a kind act, to rescue a companion, to ford a stream, to gather kindling, to salute the flag, to build a fire—always be prepared.

THE "NEW" SCOUT BATHING SUIT.

The Scout Bathing Suit is yet another instance of your Stores Department's service to Scouting. It has been chosen after a great deal of investigation as to quality, manufacture and appearance that should go into a suitable Bathing Suit for Scouts. The suit now featured for the first time is without a doubt the very best "all wool" garment that can be procured at its price. Made of the best quality pure Australian wool, spun and dyed in Canada, and manufactured in one of the foremost mills where quality alone counts. The suit is made in the popular one-piece style with skirt, in a serviceable shade of khaki and trimmed in the Scout colours of Green and Gold, with the Scout Swimming Costume Badge neatly sewn on.

A SLEEPING SACK FOR SCOUTS.

How to keep warm at night is information that every Scout can use to good advantage. There is no warmth in blankets, a statement which will no doubt surprise you. All the heat used in keeping you warm at night—unless, of course, you have a fire—must come from your own body. The blanket merely serves the purpose of keeping the heat from getting away. So the best material for making blankets is that which is the poorest conductor of heat. Wool is a poor conductor of heat. That's why woollen blankets are "warmer" than cotton ones. One thing that will make you cold quicker than anything else is draughts. If there is a tiny opening where the wind can get in, out of the blankets goes the warm air and in comes the cold: and if the night is at all chilly, you soon begin to shiver and shake.

The problem you have got to solve then, is to arrange your blankets so that they will be draught-proof. Most sleeping sacks are too expensive for Scouts, so we'll have to use our wits and think of a good substitute. On page 23 of this Catalogue you will find Blanket Pins listed, six for 25 cents, these are what you require. When you are ready for bed, fold one side of your blanket lengthwise to the middle. Then fold the other side clear across. You now have three layers of blanket. Fold the blanket up about 6 or 8 inches at foot and fasten down with the pins.

Sleep with the double ply at your back. To do so place your hands on the two bottom plies and slip carefully into your sack. Lie still for a few minutes and you will be quite snug and warm. If your blanket is very thin use two, in fact, you will find it makes a better sack to use two as the extra layers of air between the blankets will keep you warmer, as air is a very good non-conductor of heat.

OUTDOOR SERVICE OUTFIT.

Your OFFICIAL uniform will stand for anything you can do to it within reason; but, of course, it will last longer and will always look much better if you will spare it some of the harder knocks. That is why the new Outdoor Service Outfit was produced—an "undress" uniform for knocking about at camp and on the hike; bird study up a tree, and all that sort of "rough stuff."

It's so comfortable that you forget you have it on. The shirt and shorts are made of our standard khaki drill, a material which has been found so satisfactory both in its wearing quality and fast colour. The shirt has short sleeves, V-neck without collar, detachable OFFICIAL buttons that can easily be removed for washing purposes, and the OFFICIAL "BOY SCOUTS—CANADA" embroidered badge sewn over the right side pocket. The shorts are of regulation pattern with one hip pocket and belt loops.

You'll like the outfit and the ample freedom it affords its wearer.

BASUTO SANDALS.

How would you like to be shut up in a more or less airtight case in which you could only just move and with the sun and light shut out all day long? Well, that is how your feet feel about it. We shut them up in tight leather cases, and very seldom let them out for a little fresh air or a sun bath, and then wonder why they put up a protest in the shape of a corn or a blister when we ask them to take us for a hike.

Why not give your feet a holiday now and then by wearing sandals whenever you can and especially when in camp.

The Sandals illustrated herewith are made specially for Headquarters and will be found to be ideal for wearing with the new Outdoor Service Outfit while in camp.

HOW TO WASH UNIFORMS.

1. MATERIAL.—The different materials used in the OFFICIAL Boy Scout and Wolf Cub Uniforms have been selected after most careful investigation, and have been standardized by Headquarters for use in the Movement.

2. GUARANTEE.—The materials are guaranteed by the Manufacturers as well as by Dominion Headquarters. All garments have the OFFICIAL label of the Association, and cases of unsatisfactory service should be reported.

3. WASHING.—The cloth should be washed in luke warm water with a soap similar to Ivory or any other which does not contain much alkaline matter. Lay the garment on a board; scrub thoroughly with a coarse brush. Do not under any circumstances rub the soap directly on the cloth as this is injurious. Rinse, first in warm water, and then in cold water to which at least two cups of coffee grounds have been added. This will help to maintain the original appearance of the garment. When rinsing it is not advisable to leave the garment an excessive time in water.

Garments should be wrung out with the hand and rough dried.

Iron by using a piece of ordinary white drill as an ironing cloth to cover the garment.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR SCOUT HAT.

It pays to take care of one's hat. When not on the head it should be placed on a flat surface. If hung up or stood on edge the brim may assume a permanent curve neither comfortable in wear nor attractive in appearance.

A soft and floppy brim can be temporarily improved by ironing. The iron should not be applied direct, but a thin cloth, which should be slightly damp, should first be placed over the brim. Care must be taken to see that the strap or lace is not under the brim whilst this operation is being carried out.

WHAT IS A ROVER SCOUT? THE REASON WHY.

What is a Rover, and why is it necessary to have such a branch of the Boy Scout Movement? The answer is very simple if one gives the matter a minute's thought. Scouting began as a Boys' Movement; it was an experiment, and an experiment that worked. It was not long before it was found that it attracted boys of all ages, and to provide for the younger ones from 8-12 years of age the Wolf Cub Branch was started. This emphasis on the younger boys, perhaps, together with the name of the Movement "The Boy Scouts Association," made the senior fellows, in many cases, feel it was a kids' show; in spite of the fact that the Rules have always provided for boys staying on in the Movement to any age, although not supposed to join after 18; and so a large number left their Troops at the age of 14-16, when they felt it was no longer a game for them.

There were, however, many splendid exceptions to this rule—and the work of those Scoutmasters who overcame these difficulties in the early days of the Movement cannot be too highly praised, as they showed that the Spirit of Scouting implanted in a boy can be developed into a real asset not only to the young man himself, but to the Nation of which he is a member, and so to the World at large.

In order to extend this senior side of our work a separate branch was formed, after much careful thought and experiment, with the object of retaining the young men and emphasising the fact that it was always intended that they should stay. Incidentally, too, it provides for the large number of young men who have had the advantage of being Scouts when boys and who can thus link up with the Movement.

On the Road to Health and Happiness

Rovering has made us think in terms of "Young Men" as opposed to "Boys," and it is here where the real secret of success of the Rover Branch is to be found. The work must be harder, the play more strenuous, and the outlook broader than that of the boy, and this can only be done successfully where the young men are banded together in such a way as to allow of it.

Therefore the Rover Branch of the Movement is a natural growth, and it demands the attention and study of all Commissioners and Scouters, for does not the future of the whole Brotherhood largely depend on the development of this, our Senior Section, upon the right lines?

Not only will the Movement be judged by the men it produces, but the Rovers of to-day will produce the men to carry on our Brotherhood in the future.

As the Chief Scout says in "Rovering to Success": "The object of the Rover Section of the Movement is to enable young men to develop themselves as happy, healthy and useful citizens, and to give each his chance of making a successful career for himself."

Never was the world so much in need of good citizens as it is to-day, and so in Rovering, through its Brotherhood and Service for Others, the Chief has outlined a practical way of developing the Scout training to fit the requirements of young men of to-day, and to help them to combat those tendencies which are threatening to undermine the character of the Nation.

BOOKS FOR ROVERS AND YOUNG MEN.

ROVERING TO SUCCESS, by Sir Robert Baden-Powell.

A Book intended to help young men of all classes (from seventeen upwards) to get on the right track and make the best of their lives.

The author shows that by wrong use good things can become bad things, and healthy pleasure may develop into harmful self-indulgence.

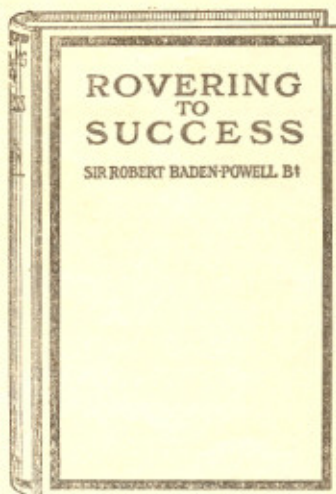

He draws a distinction between true health-giving sport and the other thing. He points out that a sense of chivalry will solve one of the greatest dangers with which a young man is faced, and that religion is reverence for the wonders of the universe.

In short, the author expresses himself freely and frankly, as an old fellow to a lot of young fellows whose welfare he has at heart.

THE YOUNG MAN AND HIS PROBLEMS, by James L. Gordon.

An inspiring and uplifting work for young men. The first chapter deals with "Grit," others with "Will Power," "Self-Control," "Tact," "Friendship," "Personal Magnetism," "Books," "Worry," "Dissipation," "Courage," and "Marriage." Each chapter contains several interesting and telling anecdotes of men in public life, along with which there is much helpful and vital comment by an author possessed of literary force and depth of feeling. The book is written wholly in the Twentieth Century spirit. Without being didactic, it is inspiring and effective in many ways.

TROOP AND PACK NECKERCHIEFS.

The neckerchief is the most characteristic and distinctive part of the uniform. It has a great number of useful purposes, some of them available in emergencies, so that a Scout or Cub on duty should never be without his neckerchief. The colour of the neckerchief indicates the Troop or Pack, and is worn with the neckerchief slide, better known as the "Turk's Head."

Made of a standard mercerized dress sateen of substantial wearing quality and in fast colours. Available in 12 plain and 72 combination of colours and in 8 distinctive styles as listed.

HOW TO ORDER NECKERCHIEFS.

The many different neckerchiefs listed herewith have been chosen as our standard lines after several years' experience of the different colours and styles in greatest demand. Many Troops and Packs will recognize at a glance their present colours. It will only be necessary therefore for them to order by the corresponding number. Newly organized Troops and Packs will find this list of great help in the choosing of a suitable neckerchief. When this has been decided upon, careful note should be taken of its style, price and number in order to be sure of obtaining the same article throughout.

203-205 WELLINGTON STREET, OTTAWA, CANADA

FOR SEASCOOUTS AND LEADERS

A Sea Scout is first and foremost a Boy Scout. This must never be forgotten. Well-to-do boys have opportunities for yachting and boating, and our object is to give the poorer boy his chance also of becoming an amateur sailor, with all its joys and all its benefits. The Sea Scout should have all the attributes of a Scout combined with those of a sailor or waterman, according to locality. The combination should make the ideal citizen.

The Sea Scout training, moulded as it is for the development of true citizenship, is applicable to all lads, whether destined for a land or sea life.

The average education runs necessarily very much in a groove, whereas a boy wants variety. The seaman's training is generally considered to be practically equal to that of a backwoodsman in producing manliness and character. In Scouting and Sea Scouting the endeavour is made to tack a combination of these two forms of training on to the ordinary education of the boy, with a view to completeness in his equipment as a citizen.

The first thing to grasp in Sea Scout training is that Sea Scouting is not Training Ship work. We only have the boys with us for a few hours in the week instead of every day and all day, and we Sea Scoutmasters are not trained instructors. If we try to drill our boys into smartness, or to instruct them in the details of navigation at first starting off, we are going to make a very second-rate job of it, if not a total failure.

Fortunately we have in our hands a powerful lever which counterbalances our handicap of being untrained instructors, and one which the ordinary schools appear to be unable to use—we have the desire and enthusiasm of the boy himself to help us. We need only play up to that to get the best results. Schools have to direct their teaching so that they shall produce efficiency; we do not—at least, not in the first instance—for the above reasons. We cannot hope for success if we do. Our first step is to develop the right spirit, and once you have got that, efficiency will follow all the more effectively, because it is worked up by the boy himself.

Sea Scouting does not necessarily involve a troop being at the seaside. Inland cities can raise and train quite efficient troops as has been proved many times over in practice. The ideal Headquarters is a barge, or houseboat, moored in a river, canal, or creek. This, with its fleet gradually built up of sailing or rowing-boats, canoes, rafts, etc., forms the centre for aquatic activities. In any case, whether the Headquarters are on land or water, the troop should possess a rigged mast for developing physical strength, activity, and self-confidence, such as are gained by continually going aloft.

The Sea Scout method is on the same principle as that for other scouts, namely, through activities and games that really appeal to the boy, and not through drill and formal instruction. The principal aim, as in the case of all Scouting, is always Good Citizenship on a really up-to-date line of training, through the development of (1) Character; (2) Health.

Under character we include individual manliness, self-discipline, energy, reliability, happiness, and "handi-manness."

REGARDING LARIATS, SPINNING ROPES, ETC.

"We had a headquarters lariat and a spinning rope with us, and fell in with some cowboys who were expert rope artists. They thought our ropes were the best they had ever seen. They wanted to swap theirs for ours, and then to buy them, and when we refused, tried to steal them, so we were very backed. We also saw lots of genuine ranchmen armed with regulation Boy Scout woodcraft knives."

Extract from a letter to The Dominion Camp Chief, from H. E. D. Cooper, Milestone, Sask., describing a month's hike in the mountains.

LADY OFFICERS' UNIFORM

The previous lack of a standard, and generally acceptable uniform for Lady Scoutmasters, Cubmasters and their Lady Assistants, has resulted in many of our Lady Leaders wearing widely different costumes. While many others have done nothing at all in the matter, they have expressed a desire for a "STANDARD" and "OFFICIAL" uniform if Headquarters would take the lead and evolve something suitable.

It is with pleasure therefore, that, with the assistance of a lady authority both on Cubbing and Dress, we are able to feature herewith a "STANDARD" and "OFFICIAL" uniform that we are convinced will meet with entire approval.

A great deal of time has been spent in the selection of a suitable cloth; many different materials were considered as well as colours. Khaki has been decided upon as the most dependable and economical both in wearing quality and colour, while three (3) qualities are offered as to choice.

In the designing of the uniform the desirability was kept in mind of a costume all or part of which should be suitable also for business or other wear. The different "cuts" featured herewith will show that these most important details have been observed.

The uniform consists of:—A soft khaki wool-felt hat, Norfolk coat, light fawn silk shirtwaist with a green silk tie, khaki skirt and knickers to match the coat, and appropriate badges.

No. 2

DESCRIPTION OF "CUTS."

All "cuts" as featured are taken from the original photographs of the actual uniform as worn. No. 1 gives an excellent idea of the complete costume—neat and dressy you will admit and adaptable for all occasions. No. 2 shows the Norfolk effect of the coat as seen from the back. No. 3 features the skirt with shirtwaist—an ideal combination for indoor activities—and No. 4 shows the coat with knickers. This last combination is especially recommended for hiking and camp wear.

TENTS AND SHELTERS

FOR GOOD CAMPING YOU WANT RELIABLE TENTS.

WEDGE TENT

This pattern is extremely popular where lightness alone is to be considered. It does not give the same accommodation as the Wall Tent of similar size, but it packs in a smaller space, takes less time to pitch and can be easily fastened down against the most severe storm.

All tents of this style are equipped with sleeve ridges, making it possible to erect the tent with poles—or by running a piece of rope through the sleeves at the end of ridge and stretching tight between trees.

PRACTICAL USES OF THE STAFF

The illustrations given below show several different ways in which the staff will prove a handy and valuable article, essential to the Scout's Outfit.

The Staff is very useful for beating out bush fires and out-breaks which occur on open heaths

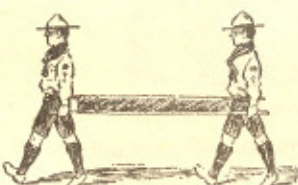

When anyone falls through some ice, throw him your Staff so that he can grasp it like this until you can get a rope and pull him out

A clear view can be had by looking through a small hole drilled in the Staff

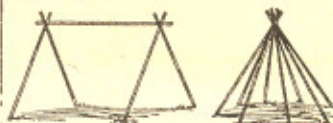

Wading a stream. Two or three Scouts grasp the Staff like this

An improvised stretcher of coats and staves

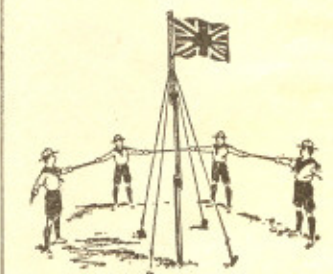

When climbing gates you can give yourself a push up with your staff

Both patrol tents and teepees can be made with the aid of the Staff

A line of Scouts linked together on a night march.

For erecting a flagstaff and forming a fence, the Staff is very useful

To stop a mad dog, hold the Staff crosswise in front of you, and point it at the animal, as shown above

As a tripod for cooking, and also as a seat, the Staff is handy in camp

FURTHER USES OF THE STAFF

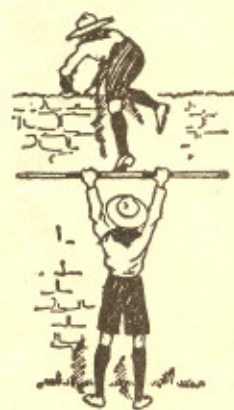

Measuring Distances Self-Defence Making Splints
Jumping Ditches Making Rafts Bridge-Building
Climbing a Mountain—

Carry the Staff crosswise, and if you slip, lean inwards upon it, against the side of the mountain. The weight of your body will then drive the end of the Staff into the earth, and so anchor you.

Levering up Logs and Stones Rope Ladders
Feeling the Way Over Marshy Ground
Recovering Objects Floating in the Water—

First tie a line to the centre of the staff. Then tie a piece of string to each end of the staff, the other ends of these strings being tied to the centre line. That will keep the staff at right angles to the line that is in your hand.

By swinging the staff out over the water, beyond the floating article, you will be able to draw the latter in close to shore.

This picture shows a simple way of scaling a wall with the help of a Staff

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Scouts are strongly urged to obtain their own individual Staffs from the natural wood. These will be found much more serviceable than the ordinary factory made article.

FACTORY MADE STAFFS (ONLY).

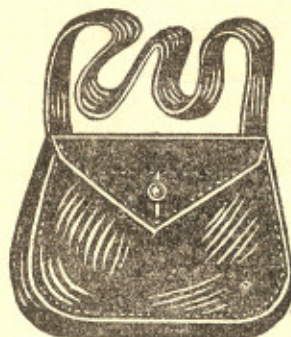

For the convenience of Scouts who are unable to obtain natural staffs, The Stores Dept. can supply staffs of finished wood at a cost of 35c each or $4.00 per dozen.

Note:—These are forwarded Express charges collect.

"MAKING FIRE WITHOUT MATCHES."

THE TECUMSEH FIRE BOW SET.

Even in recent years lives have been lost from cold and exposure in the north woods, or great privation suffered, by men who would not have suffered or lost their lives had they known how to make fire without matches—for warmth or as a distress signal—using materials which were all about them. While not a probability, of course, it is not impossible that any Canadian Scout may some day find himself in a similar predicament. For this reason as well as for the fun of it, and because the art is real scoutcraft, every Canadian Scout should learn to make fire as the Indians used to make it before the white man came with his matches. And it is the only way in which a Boy Scout Camp Council Fire should be started.

THE TECUMSEH FIRE BOW SET, now offered to Canadian Scouts after thorough experiments to discover the most suitable wood, is in all respects a first class and practical friction-fire outfit. The set consists of a fire-board, tested for fire; a spindle, shaped and ready for use, and also tested; a hand-block; tinder for the first attempts of the young fire maker, and a strong rawhide thong for the bow. Because of its awkward size, as well as the fact that it can readily be fashioned, the bow itself is not included.

The set is sent securely packed in a strong, neat khaki carrying-case, with a loop for slinging over the shoulder. Complete instructions accompany each set. By following these carefully any Scout can in a very short time learn to make fire in this fascinating way—"like the Indians used to."

MOUTH ORGANS.

For the hike, for camp, for troop and for home; by day and by night, the old mouth organ is The Thing. Why? That's easy! Because it slips into your pocket and goes everywhere; because it makes so much joyous, happy music compared with other instruments much more costly. No better harmonicas made, and none so good at the prices near these.

"Marine Band" Harmonica. Has ten single holes, 20 reeds, nickel-plated; put up in fancy box. Very popular with Scouts.
Price 65c

Auto Valve Harmonica. Ten double holes, 40 reeds, nickel-plated; each in fine box. Easy blowing and a fine concert or concert harmonica.
Price $1.50

NOTE:—With each order for mouth organs is included a free instruction book showing you how to learn to play.

BRAYCO is a scientifically constructed still-picture projector which uses strips of standard size non-inflammable picture film instead of heavy, fragile glass slides. Each strip of film contains from 16 to 100 separate pictures. Brayco weighs but four pounds and is 10½ inches high; but is so simply, yet ruggedly constructed, that it may be operated by a child, and with reasonable care will last a life-time.

BRAYCO may be attached to any electric light outlet, using either alternating or direct current. The operating cost is about one cent per hour and all fire hazard is absolutely eliminated. Brayco may be operated from an automobile battery of 12 to 16 volts, either wet or dry cell.

THE BRAYCO PICTURE PROJECTOR with 12 films on Scouting activities, and book of lectures, can be rented from Headquarters at a cost of $2.00 for each day in use. You may also rent for an additional $2.00 per day 60 Lantern Slides featuring Scout work. Applications for either the BRAYCO or LANTERN SLIDES should be sent in advance of the date required in order to make sure that such are available, together with rental costs.

No special screen is needed, as any plain flat surface will do. Its standard lens is adapted to the ordinary club room or small hall. For the longer focal distances, a special lens is provided.

BRAYCO can project as many as one hundred pictures per minute or one picture may be held on the screen indefinitely. In a strip of film 3 to 10 feet long, Brayco will give 90% of the educational or entertainment value of 1,000 feet of motion picture film, and at less than one-tenth the cost of glass slides.

ASTRONOMY SIMPLY EXPLAINED FOR BOY SCOUTS:—Official publication. Fully illustrated. Recommended by Headquarters to Pass the Test. Every Scout is, in a general way, interested in the stars, but because most books on the subject are too far advanced, and rather expensive, the desire to know the names of the bright stars and constellations cannot always be satisfied. In this little volume we have a guide to the fundamental laws and principles which govern the motions of the heavenly bodies, along with a series of diagrams depicting the principal constellations which adorn our evening skies; while twelve maps, showing the position of all the brighter stars and constellations for each month of the year, are also given.

CHARACTER TRAINING IN THE WOLF CUB PACK, by V. C. Barclay.—Author's note to the reader. This book is not a handbook—there is only one handbook in the Cub Movement, and that is "The Wolf Cub's Handbook," by the Chief. Nor is it exactly a practical commentary on the "Handbook"—I tried to do that in "Cubbing." It is simply a series of reflections on what our work is intended to accomplish, if the Chief's ideas are truly carried out; on what I have seen it accomplish in many Packs.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT "STORY BOOKS"

This is a catalogue not only of every sort of Scout equipment to add to your comfort and happiness when in the great out-of-doors, but of books. Not "just books," but books as carefully selected as your equipment. Selected carefully because we want you to have only those that are the most helpful, the most informing and the most interesting.

All boys want to read. All boys will read. But there are two kinds of books for boys—the wrong kind and the right kind.

In the following pages will be found a list of the right kind of books, not only for boys but for grown-ups as well.

Although featured in this catalogue chiefly for Boy Scouts, these books will be found to make a very real appeal to the general public and we assert confidently that there is no better collection of literature on the market than that found in this list.

The neighbours never knew what he was going to do next. He frightened the horses and defied the cows; he thought nothing of raiding the pantry or the dairy, and once he went to sleep in a neighbour's bed. THE LIVING FOREST, by Arthur

Heming:—Boys' classics have a way of winning the allegiance of adult readers; and it is more than possible that "The Living Forest" will not only be treasured by more than one generation of boys, but will be equally acceptable to their parents. For this tale of adventure in the remoter Canadian forests has been written by one of Canada's greatest living masters of woodcraft, and so is able to endure any test of plausibility to which it may be put by stern young critics with a passion for factual accuracy. Then, too, life in the wilderness is changing more rapidly than some of us would like; already some of the most picturesque things in Heming's books belong to a past that will never return, and as time goes on our knowledge of primitive life on this continent must be gleaned more and more from such too-scant records, of which Heming's romances are among the fullest in detail, the most reliable and most entertaining.

YOURSELF AND YOUR BODY

By Wilfred T. Grenfell. (Illustrated by the Author.)

"Having two sons," says DR. GRENFELL, "who had just reached the age of ten million Whys and Hows and Whens and Wheres, it occurred to me that they would respect the development of their bodies more if they understood more about them." This book will certainly enable a child to do this, by reason of its simple and vivid text and its graphic and amusing pictures. It is a fascinating book, and like no other on its subject; never was a branch of science so humanly and dramatically set forth. Price, $2.50.

The maximum success of Scouting in any community can only be realized where there is a general understanding by the public of its aims and principles. Consistently good Scouting is of course of first necessity, and must back up any other form of publicity; but many persons of every community can be reached and correctly informed only through the local press. Every Troop therefore should if possible have its weekly column of Scout news, notices and occasional items of information on the Scouting programme. Editors usually will be found ready to co-operate,—particularly if an attractive cut is supplied to head the Scout column.

Programmes of entertainments, displays and field days, admission tickets, etc., always look more attractive and business-like if the make-up includes one or more Scout cuts. This applies also to troop and pack stationery.

"Thank you for the courteous and speedy service you have given to the 2nd St. Thomas Troop during the year 1926.

During the four years the 2nd Troop has been active, we attribute much of our success to the fact that we have had the co-operation of H.Q. and have been able to give to our Scouts the best value for their money in the matter of supplies."

Sincerely,
M. Turnbull,
2nd St. Thomas Troop.

Roseland, B.C.,

EVERY SCOUT and CUB IN UNIFORM

for the DIAMOND JUBILEE YEAR

DURING 1927 The Boy Scouts Association of Canada will play its part in celebrating the Diamond Jubilee of Canadian Confederation.

This will mean participation in local celebrations by Scout Troops and Cub Packs in every part of the Dominion.

The extent to which Scouts and Cubs can participate effectively will depend, in the first place, upon their being neatly and properly uniformed.

Incidentally these special occasions will provide opportunities for demonstrating some of the important results of the Scout training--alertness, neatness, smartness; the team work suggested by a standard type of uniform for each Troop or Pack. Unfortunately, false ideas as to the general standards of Scout training have been given the public by Scouts, Cubs and leaders who have not given due thought to the kind of uniform they wore.

Let us whenever appearing in public this year show what real Scouts and Cubs look like--wearing only a uniform which is neat and correct, and "Official for Canada."

Scouts and Cubs--if the matter has not yet been decided, ask your Patrol Leader or Sixer, or Scoutmaster or Cubmaster, what the standard uniform for your Troop or Pack is to be. Leaders--if you have not already done so, discuss this most important point with your Court of Honour or Pack Council.

And finally, do not overlook the point that you help the Movement every time you purchase the "Official" uniform direct from
