(APRIL 1954)

The thrills of camp life belong to every Boy Scout. Make sure you don't miss out on the fun this year, get your application in right away. Scout camp is a non-profit project, costs very little to attend—gives you a grand outdoors holiday.

WHAT PARENTS SHOULD KNOW ABOUT SCOUT CAMP

When your boy goes off to Scout Camp this summer, you know he's headed for a grand and glorious adventure. Scout Camp has just about everything a boy could ask for—swimming, boating, hiking, outdoor cooking, woodcraft, games—and the friendly companionship of many other boys.

Initiative and leadership is encouraged in your boy; the kind of self-reliance that makes for good neighbours and good citizens. At all times, though, activities are supervised by experienced campers who regulate camp programmes and keep a parental eye on your boy.

Scout Camp is a democratic community with a strong spiritual tradition. Every Boy Scout has ample opportunity for religious worship and is encouraged to grow strong in the faith of his fathers while he grows strong in body and spirit.

THE WOLF CUB BOOKS

A series of eight small booklets specially compiled for Wolf Cubs dealing with some of their Proficiency Badges and other interesting matter. Published by the Boy Scouts Association of England and "recommended" by Canadian Headquarters, these booklets will be found of immense value to Cubs in their journey through the Jungle.

PRICE PER BOOKLET.....

20 cents.

A series of "Child Approved" books which have been tested before publication by groups of children under the direction of skilled leaders in the field of creative activities. You can be sure they will appeal to the age groups for which they were designed.

A NATURE BOOK (age 8 to 13)—Things children should know about the wide open spaces.

HOW, WHY, WHEN (age 7 to 12)—Over one thousand questions and answers most commonly asked by children.

DRAWING MADE EASY (age 7 to 12)—Actually shows how to draw simple projects with instructions for the beginner.

PAPER FUN (age 6 to 11)—Hundreds of projects to make with paper, from airplanes to dolls.

LET'S HAVE A PARTY (age 8 to 13)—Planning a party? Then this book is a "must have".

SPACE, TIME, ROCKETS (age 8 to 13)—The subject children want to know about. Written by experts.

LET'S PLAY TOGETHER (age 7 to 12)—Games, tricks and puzzles, can be played in groups or individually.

COOK BOOK (age 7 to 12)—Every child likes to work in the kitchen making simple dishes. This book shows how.

SEWING BOOK (age 8 to 12)—Daughter and mother will learn from this informative book. Dress making, designing doll's clothes, etc.

THINGS TO MAKE (age 7 to 12)—Hundreds of projects using simple material that children can say "I made it myself".

BOOK OF HOBBIES (age 7 to 12)—Hobbies provide fun, recreation, and education, besides developing into life-long interests.

LOTS OF THINGS TO DO (age 7 to 12)—Hundreds of hours of fun with pencil and paper. Puzzles, drawing lessons, and games.

PRICE PER BOOK.....25 cents.

THE SCOUTER'S BOOK SERIES

A series of four booklets specially compiled for Leaders which will be found of invaluable help in the training of boys.

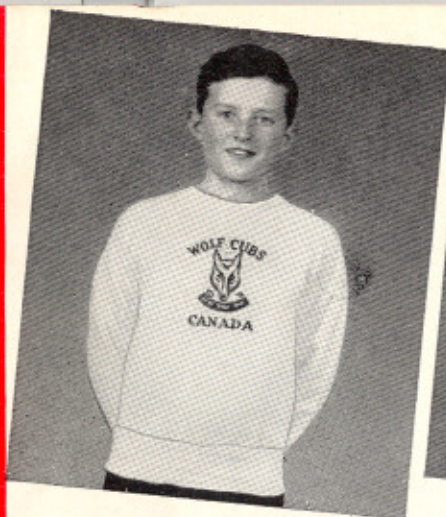

100 IDEAS FOR TROOP MEETINGS: Lord Rowallan, the Chief Scout of the Commonwealth says: "Scouting is a boys' game but a Man's job". This booklet provides you with 100 ideas for your Troop meetings.

THE COURT OF HONOUR: This is as old as Scouting and is absolutely fundamental to successful Scouting in the Troop.

THE MAN AND THE BOY: Scouting is a team game, not only amongst the boys but amongst the Scouters as well. This booklet will convince Leaders of Cubs and Scouts that there is a matter of discipline within the Pack or Troop.

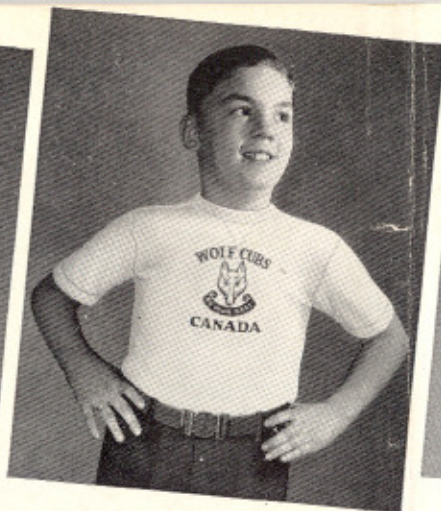

100 IDEAS FOR PACK MEETINGS: A booklet that every Cubmaster should have. Crammed full of ideas that will make that "dull" meeting a "lively" one.

Wear Them—CORRECTLY

There is nothing that detracts more from the smartness of the uniform than a sloppy or dirty neckerchief. It should always be clean, well pressed and, by following these simple steps when putting it on will assure the wearer of correctness: (1) Lay neckerchief on flat surface and roll long edge back in even folds. (2) Place around neck over collar of shirt or jersey. (3) Draw neckerchief slide over ends and adjust to fit. (4) Tie ends in overhand knot as a reminder of the "Daily Good Turn."
